Although the law provides that the deputy is to be selected by the accountant when the work is organized, it is understood that Captain McCarthy believes that the deputy will be as valuable to him at the beginning at it will be later on. The new office goes into existence on July 1 next.

miembers are Governor Mann, Senator J. W. Edmondson, of Halifax; Captain Thomas Smith, of Warrenton, and Captain S. P. Read, of Mecklenburg.

The sculptor, F. William Slevers, of New York, agrees to have the monument ready for final inspection by the commission at his studio, on March 12, 1912. It is to be on the ground of the National Cemetery at Gottysburg, on the designated spot and ready for unveiling on July 1, 1913, more than three years hence.

Of course, the design is to be unchanged from that already decided upon, which comprises a shaft with small figures at the side, surmounted by an equestrian statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee. However, the commission reserves the right in the contract to reject any and all models or plastic studies which may be submitted, should they not be regarded as complying fully with the design.

NEW ADJUTANT-GENERAL

Senator W. W. Sale Takes Charge of Office This Morning.

Virginia's new Adjutant-General William Wilson Sale, of Norfolk, will assume the duties of his position this morning. The records of the office will be formally turned over to him by Adjutant-General Charles J. Anderson who has served two terms in this capacity, though they were not consecu-pacity, though they were not consecutive.

Adjutant-General Sale was selected in January for the office. He was a Senator from Norfolk, and in order that his constituents might not be deprived of representation, he decided to hold the position until the close of the legislative session. General Anderson consented to continue for six weeks longer, although he has desired for some time to retire and give his time to private business matters.

one time to retire and give his time to private business matters.

At the time of General Anderson's announcement that he would not be a candidate for reappointment, there were many protests from all over the State from military men who regretted that the State should lose his services.

I. & N. Rate Hearing.

At some date yet to be selected, there will be a hearing before the State Corporation Commission in a rate case regarding the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company. The commission recently put into effect a new freight classification covering shipment of articles with which are frequently dispatched additional articles to be used as promiums to aid in sales. All the other Virginia railroads agreed, but the Louisville and Nashville seems to be determined to fight the point out.

New Lumber Road.

Among the charters granted yester-day by the State Corporation Commis-sion was one to the Rockfish Valley Railroad Company, This concern, com-posed largely of Pennsylvania capital-lists, proposes to build a lumber road fifteen miles long to run through the counties of Nelson and Albemarle.

Pewer Convict Camps.

Reduction in the number of convict road camps will be necessary in the near future. This in spite of the fact that the Legislature increased the amount of appropriation for this purpose from $45,000 a year to $40,000. Such a result was forecast on the floor of the House of few days ago by Delegate Berkley D. Adams, of Char-lotte. Mr. adams said that the exist-lar amount would not support the present number of fourteen camps, and present number of fourteen camps, and he tried to get an increase to $10,000, in which he falled. The reason for the existence of a greater number of camps than could be cared for by the appropriation was that many of the counties did not get started until late in the year, and the money was available to keep them going for a time.
